It is announced that the government has decided not to oppose the resolutions. They will probably be submitted this afternoon.

foreign, do hereby and herein solemnly declare and pledge myself that if reinstated as the constitutional sovereign of the Hawaiian Islands, I will immediately proclaim and declare unconditionally and without reservation to every person who directly or indirectly participated in the revolution of January 17, 1893, a full pardon and amnesty for their offenses, with restoration of all rights, privileges and immunities, under the constitution and the law, which have been made in pursuance thereof, and that I will forbid and prevent the adoption of any measure of prescription or punishment for what has been done in the past by those setting up or supporting the provisional government.

"It becomes me further duty to advise you, sir, the executive of the provisional government and your committee of the president's determination of the question, which your action and that of the queen brought upon him, that you are expected to promptly relinquish to her constitutional authority. And now Mr. President and gentlemen of the provisional government, with a deep and solemn sense of the gravity of the situation, and with the earnest hope that your answer will be inspired by that patriotism which forgets all self-interest in the name and by the authority of the United States, I submit to you the question—Are you willing to abide by the decision of the president?

Mr. Wills.—Yes, sir, gentlemen, good-day."

HAWAII IN THE SENATE.

The Controversy Growing Warmer Day by Day.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The Hawaiian controversy waxes warmer from day to day in the United States senate. Nearly a score of resolutions have already been introduced on the subject but the end is not yet in sight and after more than an hour's sharp discussion yesterday the senate adjourned with the promise of prolonged discussion of the Frye resolution to-morrow and a possibility of a vote.

But the wemen are there in their glory. This is a saloon period for the fair sex of the national capital. They run and trot around to their bears' content, and in about every other house in town the scenes repeat themselves while any shortcoming in the domestic management are easily overlooked.

Well, I am going to go to the Senate Ballroom to see what the reception and cocktails are like.

There are two ways to get into the Senate Ballroom.

One is to go to the door and knock.

The chances are that if you are a man

you will enjoy your first reception very much and vice versa if you are a woman.

One of the charms of these affairs to many people is their lack of exclusiveness.

They are open to all comers.

The most unimportant scamp may call on the grand ladies of the cabinet, leave his card, taste the punch, eat a sandwich, talk about the weather with the smiling ladies to whom he is introduced, study characters and names and have a real good time.

Moreover, she may, by the simple act of leaving the ballroom, receive an invitation to another social gathering.

Thus it is not how easy it is to get into society in Washington but into official society. All you have to do is to approach the open door and walk in. It is not even necessary to knock.

Inside Small Talk.
